

Job Description - Hindi Teacher (Remote)

About our Company:

Poliglot is an online language school headquartered in California. We blend the expertise of qualified native-speaking teachers with an engaging and personalized curriculum for children to help build lifelong communication skills.

Our tailor-made curriculum is carefully designed keeping children in mind so that they begin to fall in love with the language. We are looking for highly passionate Hindi teachers with good hold over spoken English to help us in the mission of building the next generation of multilingual children worldwide.

As a Hindi teacher, your job is to teach students how to speak, write, and read fluent Hindi. This would involve managing a classroom of 2-3 children where most students are learning Hindi as their second language. Our timings are flexible and teachers can choose how many hours they want to work. We also invest in training and certifications to help our teachers become experts in modern teaching and learning methodologies.

Job Requirements:

- Bachelor's degree in education or equivalent with proven teaching experience, ideally in an Online/Remote learning setting
- Passion for teaching children and good hold over spoken English
- Good communication and interpersonal skills with interest in learning modern teaching and learning methodologies
- Encouraging participation within the classroom to promote understanding of the content
- Monitoring and reporting on students' skills and achievement , giving feedback and attending staff meetings, as required
- Access to a Personal computer, webcam, microphone and a steady internet connection is a must
- Teachers will need a well-lit, distraction-free environment from which they can conduct the classes
